

FINAL MEETING OPEN PROGRAM

Sven Lovén Research Centre, Kristineberg 21 March 2017

Morning Session

0915-0945	Coffee
0945-1000	Welcome and introduction to SalmoInvade	Jörgen Johnsson
1000-1010	An introduction to the ecological impacts of invasive freshwater fishes	Julien Cucherousset
1010-1025	Investigating the ecological impacts of salmonid invasions: a meta-analytic approach at the global scale	Mathieu Buoro
1025-1045	Performances and ecological consequences of growth-hormone treated Atlantic salmon	Julien Cucherousset & Line Sundt Hansen
1045-1105	Ecological and evolutionary interactions between farmed and wild Atlantic salmon	Kjetil Hindar
1105-1120	Competitive interactions between native and non-native Salmonids	Line Sundt-Hansen
1120-1135	Co-existence with non-native brook trout disrupts the pace-of-life syndrome in native brown trout	Libor Závorka
1135-1150	The role of angling in affecting invasion success of salmonids	Barbara Koeck
1150-1210	Evolutionary ecological insights from the introduction of brown trout to Newfoundland	Ian Fleming
1210-1230	Discussion biological research	All participants
1230-1330	Lunch

Afternoon Session

1330-1430	Keynote presentation: Population Invasion, Evolution, and Recovery: Commonalities and Potential Insights	Jeff Hutching
1430-1450	The social dimension of fish stocking – an overview	Robert Arlinghaus
1450-1510	Governance of salmonid stocking and introductions – a North Atlantic five-jurisdiction comparison	Oystein Aas
1510-1530	Coffee
1530-1550	Public understanding of aquatic biodiversity in the context of conservation of salmonids	Sophia Kochalski
1550-1610	Managing rivers for a good ecological status generates economic benefits and indirectly conserves salmonid biodiversity: a choice experiment in four European countries	Carsten Riepe
1610-1630	Psychological and psycho-contextual determinants of the behavioral intention to alter fish stocking practices in angling clubs in Germany and France: are clubs that preferentially stock non-native salmonids different?	Carsten Riepe
1630-1700	Discussion human dimension research	All participants
1700-1730	Concluding discussion	All participants
